Weathering

The Economic Storm

In lean times, you may consider making changes in your buying decisions. Your loyalty to your security vendor may be challenged by this economic crisis.

At PACWEST Security Services we recognize that in tough economic times like these, retaining customer loyalty is the top priority. To retain customer loyalty, we keep in close contact with our customers and understand how their business is being affected by the recession. We believe that strong relationships can be built in good times and bad, but relationships that survive adversity are long lasting.

In a difficult economy you need a business partner who can deliver bottom-line results, while utilizing the “back to basics” of customer service.

During these challenging economic times your focus may be solely on cost, but your service expectation has not changed. In a recession, successful business leaders devote their resources toward keeping existing business. They do this by cross-selling to current customers and partnering with them on smart cost savings measures, then marketing these cost reduction incentives to a new customer base.

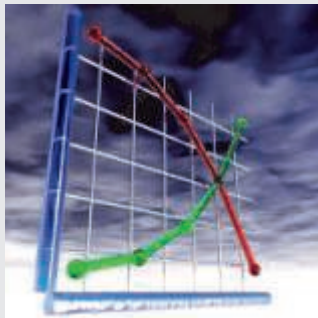

PACWEST...Your Safe Harbor

Building

Lasting Relationships

At PACWEST Security Services we recognize that when the business climate changes our customers needs will also change. The most important objective today is to show we value our customer, make every customer contact positive, and turn every challenge into an opportunity.

We understand how your business is being affected by the recession and we look for ways we can help. Doing so recession-proofs your business, your employees, and ensures your business survives tough times.

There is no better time than now, and no better way to grow your business than by partnering with PACWEST Security Services.

Our pricing is competitive, our service is exceptional and our attitude reflects how much we value your business.

We can't see into the future, but this much is clear. Now more than ever you deserve a business partner who can and will work with you in partnership to ensure your business not only survives, but prospers in this tough economy.

Challenges

Are Opportunities

Times are tough and getting tougher for everyone. Now is the time to take action and streamline your operations. Don't be in Recession Mode; instead, be in Recovery Mode.

PACWEST Security Services is ready to be your Recovery Partner. The hallmark of our company is a willingness to listen to our customers, our employees, and pay close attention to their ideas and suggestions. What we have learned is that by listening, we have been able to create powerful cost saving strategies. There is no better time to employ these cost saving measures than during an economic slowdown.

We are offering you an entirely new and profitable service opportunity.

Call PACWEST Security Services today to find out how we can help you reduce your bottom line costs while improving your service.
